Dear MURA members:

MURA will close out the first half of the 2015-16 year with our luncheon on Saturday, December 19, 2015 and we hope you will be able to join us for this special 25th anniversary event.

The past several weeks at the University of Missouri have obviously been tumultuous ones culminating with the departures of President Tim Wolfe and Chancellor Bowen Loftin and subsequent naming of Michael Middleton and Hank Foley in their respective interim roles. Whether one is speaking or communicating with those of us in Columbia or any part of the world, everyone seems to have an opinion about what did or should have happened during those days.

Like many of you, I was here on campus during the protests associated with Viet Nam, the aftermath of Watts, the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Bobby Kennedy, apartheid issues in South Africa, and probably some other challenging times I have missed. As a people's university envisioned by Thomas Jefferson as well as a land grant university dedicated to the working classes of society, it would not be unexpected for me to see these periodic social upheavals represent a microcosm of greater issues within our society. I do hope that in the coming days, we as a university community can find reconciliation and healing. While we have been again tested, it is my hope the university will continue to remain the resilient institution it has been for the past 176 years.

Higher education institutions have been accused from time to time for being deliberate in our ways. We have proof of that assertion by sharing the fact that our current board recently approved a general motion to create a MURA-endowed scholarship program that was first discussed 25 years ago. An ad hoc committee chaired by Earl Wilson is now proceeding to establish more specific guidelines to bring to the board after input from campus financial aid and advancement offices on the best opportunities and practices for our organization to consider.

If finally approved, the scholarship fund would provide a very visible way for our members to contribute to the future of a set of scholars and provide needed support to MU. As we proceed on this effort, we will keep our membership apprised of this opportunity awaiting MURA during our anniversary year.

Mention of the anniversary brings to mind our celebration of 25 years of service. During our first social of the year at Mizzou North, 83 members began the festivities with a champagne toast and ribbon cutting performed by the Columbia Chamber of Commerce in the Museum of Art and Archaeology galleries.

According to the program committee, it is anniversary toast if champagne is involved but can become a birthday celebration if a cake is cut and shared. Nearly 100 members heard a presentation at the Fall information meeting from Provost Garnett Stokes that reflected her first seven months on campus. In addition, Ms. Kelley Stuck, now Interim Vice President for Human Resources, also updated members on the status of the retirees' medical/health benefits study. Gary Smith closed the meeting by sharing some of the efforts of the MURA boards during the “early years.” The program was followed by the sharing of a celebratory cake in honor of our anniversary.

For members interested in the world of governmental affairs, your public policy committee, chaired by Mary Anne McCollum and assisted by Gary Smith, held a special breakfast program on “Perspectives on the 2016 Legislative Session. Four members of the Boone County delegation spoke to 55 members on November 18th at the Country Club of Missouri. In addition to an insightful meeting, MURA received follow up coverage in the Columbia Tribune for this effort.

Please keep an eye out for our continuing, first Tuesday breakfast programs led by John Parker at the Country Club of Missouri.

By the time this email letter gets to you, the Heart of America United Way campaign will be drawing to a close. As I finish this letter, MU/UM retirees have again been very generous to date with their giving and have exceeded our campus goal again this year. With the holiday seasons rapidly approaching, I hope this kind of news brings joy to your heart as it does to those families that you have helped.

The Aging Front

by Ann Gowans

As we study and begin to understand the process of aging, we are discovering that our brains have a very strong influence on how, and when, the rest of our body ages. The brain is, in fact, the key regulator of lifespan.

Three interventions have proven to be effective in modifying brain aging. These are: modest exercise, caloric reduction, and eating a varied and colorful diet. Remember that everything we consume, including drugs, can have an effect on how we think and feel.

Recent studies have confirmed that coffee consumption may lower the risk of developing Parkinson’s and Alzheimer’s disease. This requires us to drink from five to six cups of coffee daily for many years and is most beneficial to males. We all, however, tend to live longer if we drink a substantial amount of coffee every day. Caffeine (from tea or coffee) improves our performance with attentional skills.

Another recent study confirmed that taking one puff, yes only one puff, of marijuana a day, is good for our brains. It may, in fact, slow the progression of a specific set of age-related brain diseases, especially Parkinson’s, Alzheimer’s and Huntington’s diseases. This works best on those who are old as opposed to younger folks.

Watch your weight. Obesity leads to body-wide chronic inflammation which may predispose us to depression and dementia. The Mediterranean Diet has been associated with a lower risk of depression and other diseases. Fad diets are not good for us. We need both protein and carbohydrate in our daily intake. We also need water, fiber, fruits and vegetables, especially legumes. Skip the various therapies that are so popular in the press today. Beware the “Snake Oil” effect.

The following things are good for our brains and bodies. These include moderate beer consumption, cinnamon, curcumin (hot spice), chocolate and any colorful fruit or vegetable. Also keeping the mind as active as possible, getting a lot of sleep, and moderate aerobic exercise, such as walking.

To close, the best thing you can do for your overall health is to hug those you love and enjoy. The hormonal response is the most beneficial thing you can do for your overall health.

Cheers and have a great winter season!
MURA’s Night at the Museum

The MU Retirees Association had its first event to celebrate the group’s 25th anniversary in September 2015. About 80 members enjoyed the occasion at the Museum of Art and Archaeology’s new location in Mizzou North, beginning with Rod Gelatt leading the champagne toast. Columbia Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors highlighted the occasion with a ribbon cutting, with assistance from Tom Henderson, MURA president, and Kitty Dickerson, president-elect. A short program featured Alex Barker, Director of the Museum, and Bill Bondeson, professor emeritus and long-time supporter of the arts. Barker and Bondeson told MURA members about the early history of the museum and its role in MU’s academic mission. (Photos by William Fisch)

MURA’s Fall Information Meeting

With nearly 100 retirees present, this September 26 meeting featured Provost Garnett Stokes, who shared her perspective on MU academics. Kelley Stuck gave the latest update on discussions regarding retiree medical plans, and Gary Smith shared information from MURA’s early history as gleaned from the MU Archives. At the end of this meeting, attendees enjoyed a birthday cake to celebrate MURA’s milestone. (Photos from various sources)
MURA’s Inaugural Legislative Breakfast

About 50 MURA members attended MURA’s first legislative breakfast on November 18, an event geared toward our organization being more involved with and seeking to influence the legislature in support of the University. Reps. Chuck Basye, R-Rocheport, Stephen Webber, D-Columbia, Caleb Rowden, R-Columbia, and Kip Kendrick, D-Columbia, were in attendance with all four predicting a difficult year ahead in the legislature, including significant public relations challenges for the University overcome. Dear University of Missouri Retirees,

The Total Rewards staff have been busy this fall with Annual Enrollment for active faculty and staff and preparing for Retiree Annual Enrollment. Your retiree medical coverage will remain with Coventry Health Care this year, even though the active faculty and staff medical insurance will transfer to United Health Care. The Annual Enrollment packet that you received includes information on the changes for this year.

Over the past year, I have been sharing information with you regarding the Retiree Medical Study. It is hard to believe nearly nine months have passed since then-Vice President of Human Resources Betsy Rodriguez and I traveled the state to meet with retirees, including many of you here in the Columbia area, to hear your thoughts regarding our retiree medical coverage. Those listening sessions continued to guide the work that we did throughout the spring and summer in evaluating our current plan and drafting recommendations for your university medical coverage.

UM leadership is committed to continuing to offer insurance coverage to current retirees, covered spouses, and covered dependents, with university subsidies provided at the same percentage they are now. Many new retiree medical options have emerged since the university’s retiree medical program was developed over 50 years ago. Therefore, we have recommended that the university issue a Request for Proposals (RFP) to discover what alternatives might exist. We are currently crafting a Request for Proposals (RFP) for third-party vendors to bid for a new retiree insurance package that will offer the same or better quality and value as what retirees have now. This process has no impact on your 2016 benefits.

Any changes to the retiree insurance program will in no way affect retirees’ pension plans. The pension program is stable and well-funded. To review the steps we have taken throughout the Retiree Medical Study, you can visit the study webpage: http://umurl.us/TRTFrec5. And as always, you can contact the UM Retirement Program with questions at (573) 882-9810, toll-free at (800) 488-5288, or via email at retirement@umsystem.edu.

I also want to take a moment to remind you that retirees covered under one of the university medical plans can receive a free flu shot annually. If you haven’t already done so, check our schedule of flu shot clinics and get your shot soon. No appointment necessary! If one of the university-sponsored events does not work, you have a few other options—you can see your healthcare provider or pharmacy offering the vaccine. If you are in the Columbia area, you can visit a Mizzou Quick Care Clinic in any of the three local Hy-Vee grocery stores. At your healthcare provider or a Quick Care Clinic, the expense is covered under our insurance. If you receive one at a pharmacy, you will pay for the shot and be reimbursed by filing a claim with Coventry.

I hope you enjoy the holiday season, and best wishes for the new year!

Don’t forget to renew your MURA membership for 2016, or perhaps consider a lifetime membership!
