- Program: Ina Linville, Program Chair/President Elect. MURA began this fall with hybrid breakfast series with options to attend in-person at the Country Club of Missouri or by connecting online. Clyde and Cecile Bentley lined up a great series of local speakers: Mike Szydlowski discussed Columbia Public Schools' science education, Tom Spencer addressed MU's cutting edge NextGen, Nina Mukerjee Furstenau spoke on global foods, and Samantha Moog from Catholic Charities shared information on refugee reception and placement. About 36 people came to breakfasts each month with 10 to 15 connecting online.

MURA ended 2021 on a high note with nearly 75 people attending the holiday event at the Holiday Inn Executive Center on December 1. Attendees spread joy in the rotunda with carols, and were treated to a tasty meal, opportunities to win beautiful gift baskets and humor by our President, Ruth Tofle.

Watch the newsletter for upcoming breakfast speakers. A special breakfast at the Columbia Agricultural Park will close out the breakfasts on June 7. In the meantime, stay tune to Barbara Schneider's Picks in the newsletter for opportunities of interests to retirees.

MEMBER SURVEY: Art Jago, Faculty Member-at-Large/Fac Council Rep/ Program Comm Member. Members are satisfied with their health and pension benefits and with MURA communications and programs/meetings. Members count on MURA to be there to advocate for retirees’ interests. Online programming is appreciated by members, especially those living a distance from Columbia. Most MURA members learned of the organization from existing members.
